- Ongoing training and education of employees to develop awareness of the need to preserve the environment as well as to prevent its pollution
- The Company's Management Board also commits to ensure the necessary professional, organisational and financial resources for the implementation of this policy. In addition to educating employees, we will transfer knowledge to our guests as well as to the wider local community in order to engage as many people as possible in environmental protection.
- We will replace all products that have an adverse impact on the environment and reduce the consumption of electricity by using as much energy as possible from renewable resources. We will pay special attention to the protection of water as well as their rational consumption, and we will advise guests to do the same. We will also control the use of cleaning agents and gradually introduce products that reduce the pollution of the environment. In this manner, we would prevent marine pollution which is very important in the nature of our work and life itself.
- The Management Board continuously plans, implements and verifies the effectiveness of activities aimed at environmental protection through the requirements contained in the international standards and regulations of the Republic of Croatia.
- The Management Board follows the sustainability of business and donates its still usable equipment, such as furniture, to the old people's home. It also supports and participates in donations through the local events, all with the aim of sustainable development of community life.
- The purchase line in our company is in close cooperation with local family-run farms to ensure that guests receive the highest quality products and to reduce packaging. Also, due to the proximity of family-run farms, we reduce transport and thus diminish carbon dioxide emissions which directly affects the preservation of the environment.
- Protecting the environment is a part of the Rotondo hotel's business strategy as well as the satisfaction of guests. Through our actions, we create mutual trust between ourselves, our guests and the local community in improving environmental protection.
